REMARKS on the last Craftsman, relating to the Usage of Mr. P. —, &c.

IF any thing, which the furious and ungovern'd Passions of Men drive them to, could surprize us, it would be astonishing to hear the Two Patrons and Brother-Authors of the Craftsman, with their Hiring Second, talk of Truth and Reason, Honour and Conscience, Moderation and Decency. Those bold and licentious Scribblers boast of undeniable Facts, and yet never produced one; and of unanswer'd and unanswerable Arguments, and yet never shew'd the least Abilities for Argument, or gave the Publick so much as the fair Appearance of Reasoning. They affirm, that personal Altercations have been carry'd on against them with great Licentiousness; and personal Abuse thrown out, only to draw off the Eyes of the Publick, and divert their Attention from enquiring into the Conduct of the Ministry. Whereas, in Truth, the Craftsman (most of which have been lately wrote by the Author of the Final Answer, as appears by an exact Harmony of Sentiments and Style;) hath enquired into the Conduct of the Ministry no other way, than by personal Altercations and personal Abuse: That Paper has been one continued Scene of weekly anti-ministerial Scolding, calling Names, raving against and libelling all Persons in Power, up to Majesty itself; and yet the Par nobile Fraternum, or noble Pair of Authors, have the consummate Insolence to cail every thing wrote to confute their Calumnies Libels; infamous Court Libels AGAINST THEM. Who are they? and what would Men, who talk in such a Language, do, if they had Power equal to their Malice? Who they are, and what they are, all the World knows: One is a sour, disappointed, ambitious, revengeful, cruel Whig; and the other, first a Whig; then Whig and Tory, as it serv'd his Turn; then compleat Tory; and then a Jacobite; but, since his Return without a Restoration, he has put on the Appearance of a Whig; and, being beaten out of all Power, and almost all Hopes of Power, is turn'd Saint and Moralizer; and talks of nothing but a Contempt of Riches, Power and Ambition; of seeking only a Retreat, and that Stability of Situation which is essential to the Quiet of it; and this is said, while he is constantly and anxiously endeavouring to embroil all publick Affairs, and is actually disturbing the Repose of those who have been labouring to settle the Peace of Europe.

This worthy Pair of Authors charge the Libellers against them with ridiculing the general Notions of Patriotism, only because they have ridiculed the Practices of pretended Patriots; and with endeavouring to bring publick Virtue into Contempt, because they have exposed their publick Vices. Doctrines, they say, of the most pernicious Nature have been advanced for the Sake of a SINGLE MAN, whose Conduct can be defended on no other Principles, than those which have prevail'd in the most arbitrary Reigns, and ruin'd Prince and People: and yet they have never been able to produce one Doctrine, advanced for the Sake of that Single Man, which was not built upon the strongest Principles of Liberty; nor any Actions of his Life which required the advancing Doctrines contrary to general Liberty, and publick Virtue.

They have been often call'd upon to produce those infamous Passages; and whenever they have quoted a Sentence, or Piece of a Sentence, or two Pieces of Sentences made into one, they have been always defeated, and unable to reply; they never opened their Mouths against the Ministry, or any Ministerial Writers, but they pronounced a Falshood; and yet they are eternally talking of infamous Accusations, and slanderous Misperceptions.

They now justify all their private Scandal, their Treachery and personal Abuse, by its being begun upon them; and say, they have the Satisfaction of observing that Mr P——'s Method of Writing, [Price Two-Pence.]

in his late Book, is generally approved by the Publick; when there is not a Man of common Sense, or common Honesty in the Kingdom, but counts it the most ridiculous, scandalous and immoral Book which this, or any, Age hath produced. After the last Craftsman hath said about ten times, that the Ministerial Writers begun this Dance of personal Abuse; he gravely concludes, Thus it appears undeniably, that Mr. P—— was first attacked with these Weapons: That is, thus it appears, they have said it; and they have said it too against the Feeling and Experience of all the Readers of Publick Papers; who know, that for several Years past, nine in ten of the Craftsmen have been personal Abuse; and that the very Craftsman which gave Occasion to the Remarks was brim-full of it; but for this Sin, we leave him to be corrected by the Author of the Remarks, who is well read in Facts and Dates, hath a very good Memory, and is able to do himself Justice.

What the Craftsman says to justify Mr. P——'s betraying private Conversation and Friendship, is this, "That when the noble Person told those Stories to him, he was not his Friend, nor were they told in Friendship; for it seems the Minister sent for him and affronted him with an insolent Story, that he had taken the Liberty to sell him like a Sheep in the Market, and had actually fixed the Price upon his Head: (what a bloody Minister is this!) And then Mr. P—— expostulated with him warmly, and treated him with a Disdain which such Usage deserv'd, and parted in Resentment." Wonderful indeed! What a Heitor is this Mr. P——! Now, supposing this Relation true, it is next to impossible that the Stories themselves should be true; but we shall leave it to the Publick to determine which is most probable; that what Mr. P—— aver'd upon his Honour, should be true, against the highest Improbabilities in the World; or that the noble Person, who was not in a Passion, should be lost to common Sense, and trust a Man who shew'd all the Marks of Hatred to him, with such dangerous Sentences; Sentences which might prove so fatal to himself and his Posterity! Thus has Mr. P——, to save his Honour, in not betraying his Friend, given almost a Demonstration, that what he aver'd upon his Honour was not true; and so by endeavouring to save, he has lost his Honour; and flounders on from one Folly to another, till he is sunk into inextricable Difficulties.

But why do we talk to these Men of Truth or Honour? For it seems by the last Craftsman, that they are not obliged to pay any regard to Truth or Justice in their own Defense; for 'tis a Maxim laid down by those virtuous Casuists, that to defend Reputation, we may do what we please; their Words are, That Self-Defense is the supreme Law; and since Reputation is as dear to a Man as Life, Liberty, or Property, this Law will authorize the Defense of it by ANY METHODS against the Aggressor. Excellent Morality indeed! These are very pretty Fellows to talk of Honour, who understand nothing of the first Principles of Honesty; nor seem to have any Ideas of Morality. If Life, Liberty, Property, or Reputation are attacked, we may, indeed, defend our selves; nay, we ought to defend our selves; 'tis our Duty to do it; but we ought not to defend our selves by any Methods but what are just: If the contrary is true, that upon a Man's injuring another in his Reputation, he may defend himself by ANY METHODS; then he may lie, betray, and deceive the Aggressor, and he may privately assassinate, or murder the Aggressor; if that is necessary to prevent further Discoveries, or to preserve his Reputation, which he may, 'tis said, defend by any Methods. Thus in the Case before us, if Mr. P—— apprehends himself touch'd in his Reputation by the Noble Person, he may invent what Stories his Imagination can furnish him with to blacken him; he may enter into Associations, Combinations, or Assassination Plots, why not? It is to defend Reputation; and to defend that, ANY METHODS may be used, right or wrong, just or unjust, notwithstanding any thing from Law, Religion, Morality, Equity, Truth, or Reason to the contrary.

No wonder these Authors talk so warmly of Leagues and Combinations to destroy the noble Person. He stands in the way of their Reputation, and writes or encourages Books against them; and therefore they may destroy him; this is the true Reason, for all the other Reasons are mere Pretences. "That he has blunder'd, amass'd Wealth, engros'd Power, abused the King his Master, corrupted a Majority of both Houses, and bath the Insolence to give out in his Libels, Levees, and private Conversation, that he knows the Price of Members, and can have any of them when he pleases." These are only impudent Assertions, as an external Reason, to amuse the Mob: And they are most impudent indeed, and such as would astonish a Man, had they not been so ingenuous to communicate their Principles of Morality, and let us know, that ANY METHODS may be used with an Enemy. They affirm here, that the Noble Person hath given out in his Libels, Levees, and private Conversation, that he knows the Price of the Members, and can do with them what he pleases; 'tis amazing, that the Members of the House will suffer such Indignities to be put upon them! Let these Authors prove this one Assertion upon the Noble Person, and we'll believe any thing of him; we call upon them for their Authorities: but we may call to the Day of Judgment; for their sole Business is Defamation.

What is said to justify Mr. P's Conduct, about the Civil List Bill in the late King's time, is nothing to the purpose; 'tis very plain, that he acted a very mean flustering Part: That he argued against the Bill, and then voted for it; and so play'd this double Game, on purpose to preserve the Character of a Patriot, with that of a Courtier. He did the same when he came to be Secretary of War; gave up a Thousand Pound a Year, as a Country Gentleman, and took it again, as a Courtier: He gave it up formally, and took it again really: Nay, he took it from that very Day on which he so heroically boasted, that he had given it up.

These are the Men, (view them well,) who talk so loudly for Liberty, Country and publick Good, for Truth and Reason, Honour and Conscience, Moderation and Decency.

And his Majesty also further order'd, that the said William Pulteney be put out of all the Commissions of the Peace; and that the several Lords Lieutenants who have given him Deputations, do revoke the same: And the Right Hon. the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, and his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, were directed to give the necessary Orders therein.

Pursuant to his Majesty's Royal Proclamation for apprehending and convicting Incendiaries, an Order is issued from the Treasury for the Payment of 300 l. for apprehending and convicting Hall Bromhead, convicted at Lincoln Assizes, for sending a threatening Letter to Nicholas Adwick, Esq; of Gainsborough. As also

He left on board Governor Macray, and Capt. John Hunter, in good Health; but the latter's Wife died on Board the 30th of June. Mr. Skeffington, Chief Mate of the Craggs, died at Visagopattam. The Governor sent away Assistance immediately, but the Wind being contrary, the Boats were so long before they got to her, that only 30 Bales of Coffee, and 24 Chests of Treasure, were saved of her Cargo, and the People with some Hazard saved their Cloaths. We are advis'd from Cadiz, the 25th ult. N. S. That the President of their Commerce had received Information from their Prime Minister, that if the Commerce would petition the King to deliver out the Flota's Treasure, on the ancient Indulto of 5 per Cent it was probable he would grant their Request, provided they would generously offer to his Majesty One Million and an Half of Pieces of Eight (whether as a Loan or a Present the Letters do not agree); but the leading Men of the Commerce rejected this Motion, chusing rather to risque the Whole, than set so bad an Example, there being not the least Pretence for detaining it.

An Advice Boat from Carthage arrived at Cadiz the Day before the Letters came away; she touched at the Havanna, and left the Assogues Ships there waiting for a new Man of War, called the Conqueror, built there, being fitted for the Sea, she being to proceed with them to Cadiz as Capitana.

On Thursday began the General Quarter Sessions of the Peace for the City and Liberty of Westminster, where Sir John Gonson of the Inner Temple, the Chairman of that Sessions, open'd the same with a Charge to the Grand Jury of about three Quarters of an Hour; which was not only very learned and eloquent, but useful and instructive, and was much approved by some Gentlemen of the long Robe who heard him.

On Tuesday last one John Benley, a Smugler, was brought from Norwich by a Habeas Corpus, to be try'd at the Court of King's Bench, Westminster; but was order'd to be carry'd to Newgate to be try'd at the Old Bailey.

On Monday next the Sessions will begin at Guildhall and Hicks's Hall, and on Wednesday at the Old Bailey.

Thursday Charles Melfome, the famous Maker of the Hyde Park Halfpence, was found guilty of two Indictments at the Court of King's Bench Westminster, before the Lord Raymond; one for making counterfeit Halfpence, and the other for uttering and vending the same, knowing them to be false; and he is to receive Judgment next Term.

On Tuesday last a certain Sadler was committed to the Gatehouse by Justice Scro, for breaking into a Baker's House of his Acquaintance by Grosvenor Square, in the Night time, when in Liquor, and going to Bed to the Baker's Daughter and Servant.

On Thursday several Felons were brought to Newgate from other Goals, in order to take their Tryals at the ensuing Sessions at the Old Bailey.

On Monday last his Majesty's Purse of 100 Guineas was run for at Nottingham; six started, and the Odds were three to one on Mr. Jackson's grey Mare Exquisite, who has won two Royal Plates this Season, but was beat the first Heat by a Galloway of Mr. Rich's, call'd Louther, the Mare was drawn, and the next Heat won by Mr. Hutton's brown Horse Black Legs; now the Odds were three to one on Black Legs, but Mr. Rich's Galloway won it by a Horse's Length.

Wednesday being the last Day of the Term, several Printers, Publishers, and others, who were bound over on their Recognizances, appeared at the King's Bench Bar, Westminster; some were discharged, and others continued.

The same Day at the Court of King's Bench, Mr. Webber and Mr. Carleton, convicted last Term for an Assault upon Justice De Veil, were fined each a Shilling, and their Recognizances discharged, the Matter being before compromised.

The same Day a new Commission of the Peace for the County of Middlesex pass'd the Great Seal, in which the Names of William Pulteney and John Webber, Esqrs; are omitted.

Wednesday the Rev. Dr. Alured Clark was installed a Prebendary of the Collegiate Church of St. Peter's Westminster, void by the Promotion of the Right Reverend Dr. Wilcocks to the Bishoprick of Rochester and Deanry of Westminster; the Ceremony was performed by the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Rochester, at which were present a great Number of Gentry and Clergy.

His Majesty has been graciously pleas'd to grant to the Lady Jane Holt and Lady Lucy Wharton, Sisters of his Grace the late Duke of Wharton, all his Estate which was forfeited by his Attainder.

Extra of a Letter from Bristol, dated July 3.

The Trustees of the Bristol Turnpikes having received their Instructions for erecting Toll-Gates on the several Roads, the Gentlemen began their Attempts with the fairest Expectation of Success, inasmuch as the Care and Inspection of each District had been committed to such only as had their Estates and Interest upon the same; but no sooner had they begun the Collection, but the Colliers of Kingwood, tho' absolutely exempted from Toll, yet for the sake of Mischief, rose in a Confederacy to bear down with open Violence whatever the Gentlemen had taken in Hand. Last Wednesday Mr. Blathwayt, hearing that a Party had been detach'd to demolish a Gate erected in his Parish, attack'd them in Person, and made four of them his Prisoners; but the next Day their Legion coming on in a tumultuous Manner, and with an avow'd Intention to pull his House to Pieces if he refus'd to discharge them, he was forc'd to permit a Rescue; and going afterward to Marsfield, there found the same Persons employ'd in cutting that Gate to Pieces; from thence they proceeded to Chippenham, (as I am inform'd) and did the same; and notwithstanding Sir William Codrington and Mr. Blathwayt would have stop'd them by the Proclamation, they went on in the most impudent Defiance to Authority. This Day they have been collecting by a Coal-pit Rope at Don John's Cross, and have even forced Contribution from the Horse-driver's carrying Coals to Bristol.

This, Sir, is the Condition of our Country; and if the Power of our Magistrates be not strengthen'd by some additional Succour, no one can imagine where the Mischief will end.

Tuesday there was a Board of Admiralty, when their Lordships granted Protections to several Masters of Ships and Colliers, who had enter'd one able Seaman on board his Majesty's Yacht the Carolina. The Commissioners of his Majesty's Navy attended, and laid before their Lordships an Account of his Majesty's Ships in a Readiness for Service.

We hear that on Sunday Night last, an Express arrived at Hampton Court, with a Letter from Cardinal Fleury, wrote by Order of the most Christian King, to assure his Britannick Majesty, that the March of some Forces towards the Sea-Coast of France, was only for the Convenience of Forage, which the late Drought in the Inland Country had render'd very scarce; but that since the Motion of those Troops had given Umbrage at this Court, his Majesty had given Orders for their return to their former Quarters, he being resolv'd to omit no Opportunity of shewing his sincere Desire of preserving a strict Amity with Great Britain.

Thomas Fyre, Esq; Receiver General of the County of Chester, is also made Receiver-General for South Wales, in the room of John Meredith, Esq;

Wednesday several Hawkers were committed to Torthill fields Bridewell, by Sir John Gonson and Justice Vaughan, for hawking and vending several seditious and scandalous Libels.

On Friday last Week, between Nine and Ten in the Evening, two Coaches, one belonging to Dr. Dodd of Woodford, were robb'd by two Highwaymen between Snaresbrook and that Place: There were none but Ladies in them, who were much frighten'd at the Oaths and Imprecations us'd to them; and one of the Ladies in the Freight gave the Highwayman two Pair of Garters, (which she had just before bought) instead of her Purse: They took from them in all about 6 or 7 Guineas. The same Persons about half an Hour before had robb'd a Gentleman between the Rowe and the Town of Woodford.

Last Week died, at his Lodgings in Great Ormond Street, after a tedious Indisposition, Thomas Wyvill, Esq; Son of the late Sir Marmaduke Wyvill, Bart. and Brother to the present Sir Marmaduke Wyvill. Castle-Yard, HOLBOURN, RAMSAY, Surgeon and Man Midwife, having for many Years practis'd a Method singular to himself for the Curing Ruptures and BRUISES BRUISES, now constantly applies himself to that particular Branch of Surgery: He formerly performed it on Persons with Success, as has appeared by the Testimony of several eminent Physicians and Surgeons, who were pleas'd to let their Names to be made use of in the publick Prints as an undoubted Testimony of the Truth of the said Cure. He has since that recovered a great many who had Ailments in those Parts, and some who imagined themselves incurable, after having made use of other Applications to no Purpose; particularly two Gentlemen, who were cured by him in the Year 1724 were view'd and examined in January 1727, by some of the Physicians and Surgeons mentioned above, who unanimously exprest their Intire Satisfaction in the Cure of both of them, and of the Certainty of his Method. There are likewise two or three Gentlemen to be heard of at Mr. Franchlyn's, a Bookseller in Covent Garden, who, tho' they may not be willing to have their Names published, are ready to acknowledge their being cured by him.

As he has long practis'd this Method with Success, so he performs it within the Compass of 3 or 4 Weeks, and without giving the Patient the Trouble or Fatigue of wearing a Truss after the Cure is perfected. His Hours are from 9 to 12 in the Morning, except Tuesdays, Friday and Saturday. No Letters received, except Post-paid.
